MAYOR'S PROPOSED ANNUAL OPERATING BUDGET

City of Pendergrass FY 2027

Prepared By:
Jennifer Webb Leshok, Finance Administrator

Under the Direction of:
Bill Ellis, Mayor

Scheduled to be Adopted by the Mayor and City Council on:
November 17th, 2026

Mayor's Budget Message

Fellow Pendergrassians,

I would like to submit the 2027 budget for the City of Pendergrass. This year's budget will increase $100,000 from last year's 2026 budget. The budget is mandated by state law (O.C.G.A 36-81-2 et seq.) to be balanced. This Budget does that.

The city's funds mostly come from property taxes and franchise taxes. Included in city funds are local sales taxes shared by cities of the county by population. We happen to be on lower scales of this funding. The millage rate on your property taxes has been lowered by a small amount even though rate stayed the same.

The budget presented to council is $3,100,000 this year. As Mayor I strived to keep expenses down but with inflation budget went up by little more than 3.4%. This amount was required to keep services at current level.

The police department can continue a 24/7 presence. We have updated their fleet to decrease repair bills on old vehicles. The average police car has a useful life of less than 5 years. The Police Department has updated procedures and practices to be in full and above compliance with state and federal laws. The current police administration is working to facilitate all proper training for its officers and staff.

The city continues its growth with the Preserve subdivision continuing construction and robust sales. The shops at the Towne Square have begun, with Phase 1's expected completion in December 2026. Millhouse Station's clientele continues to grow, making a gathering place for friends and family.

In the past year the Chris Ruise Memorial has been enjoyed by young and old with the addition of its train and swings. The dog park at Joyce Wilkerson Park has had an abundance of paws bless its fenced in area.

The policies put into place in 2026 are all now active, such as the Purchasing Policy, SOP (standard Operating Procedures) and LUMC (Land Use Management Code). These ensure that the city is following practices that are founded in law and provide guidance for city employees and residents. They also help to determine how Pendergrass is to be developed.

In the coming year, the city will have a new library, at 98 Glenn Gee Rd, thanks to the cooperation of Pendergrass Baptist Church. The train depot restoration and remodeling project will be started, the shops at Towne Square will be opening. A traffic light at Glenn Abbey and US129 will be installed by Scannell and the GDOT. Scannell will be starting construction on their project on the former Smith Bridges property. Planned events utilizing the amphitheater and green space will be scheduled frequently. Road improvements will continue on Cedar & Railroad Streets.

Pendergrass continues to thrive making itself a hometown to be proud of. Through the support of the citizenry and visiting community the city's Town square will become a destination place for shopping, dining, and events, while keeping a small-town feeling.

With gratitude,

Bill Ellis, Mayor

Finance Administrator's Overview

I am pleased to present the City of Pendergrass's proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2027. The $3.1 million budget represents a $100,000 increase over FY2026 and continues to support the services and improvements important to our community.

Taxes remain the City's primary source of revenue, accounting for approximately 86% of the General Fund budget. Other revenue sources include licenses and permits, fines, and service charges. These funds support the City's daily operations, including public safety, administration, public works, and municipal court services.

Public safety continues to represent the largest portion of the budget, supporting the Police Department's 24-hour operations. We are also planning additional investments in parks and recreation, including improvements to existing facilities and the development of a dedicated space for our public library.

One of the City's significant financial accomplishments in 2026 was the early payoff of the debt related to the former City Hall building. Eliminating this debt reduces future financial obligations and provides additional flexibility as we plan for the years ahead.

As Finance Administrator, I want to continue improving the accuracy, organization, and accessibility of the City's financial information. My goal is to make our budget easy to understand while providing the detail needed for responsible financial decisions.

I appreciate the Mayor, City Council, and department heads for the information, cooperation, and input they provide throughout the City's financial processes. By continuing to work together, we can strengthen our practices and remain good stewards of the City's resources while serving the residents of Pendergrass.

Respectfully submitted,

Jennifer Webb Leshok, Finance Administrator

"Giving Progress a Home"

City Profile

The City of Pendergrass is a small but growing community in Jackson County, Georgia. Established in 1890 around the historic train depot, Pendergrass has maintained its small-town character while embracing thoughtful growth and new opportunities. The city is proud of its close-knit neighborhoods, historic charm, and commitment to providing efficient services that enhance quality of life. Guided by the motto "Giving Progress a Home," Pendergrass strives to balance progress with tradition, offering residents a safe, welcoming, and vibrant place to live.

A History of Pendergrass

A Railroad, a New Town, and a Lasting Name

Before Pendergrass became a city, it was an opportunity along a new railroad. In the early 1880s, Jackson County residents were working to connect Jefferson and Gainesville by rail—a link that promised better access to markets, new businesses, and a more prosperous future.

In 1882, railroad directors selected a station site approximately seven and one-half miles from Jefferson, on land belonging to Tom Randolph and others. The winning proposal offered more than a location: Randolph and his associates pledged to build the depot, provide the ground beneath it, contribute a half interest in nine surrounding acres, and furnish $400. With that commitment, the foundations of a new town were taking shape.

The directors named the station Pendergrass in honor of Frank L. Pendergrass, recognizing his work as a Director of the Gainesville, Jefferson, and Southern Railroad Company and his support of the Jefferson end of the railroad. The newspaper announcing the decision made a bold prediction: Pendergrass would soon become the largest station on the road.

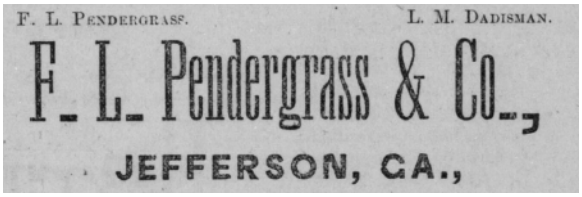

Frank's contributions extended beyond the railroad. A Jefferson businessman and alderman, he served as chairman of Jefferson's Finance Committee. After a fire damaged the Forest News offices in January 1881, he financed a new printing press and equipment that helped the newspaper resume publication. The paper became the Jackson Herald the following month, with Frank's brother Nathaniel H. Pendergrass serving as a long-time editor. The family's newspaper connection continued with John N. Holder, grandson of Nathaniel, who later became owner and editor and guided the paper well into the twentieth century. Frank's brother, Dr. J. B. Pendergrass, also practiced medicine in the area, with his early surgical work recorded in the local press.

By early 1891, newspaper reports described an incorporated town with an elected mayor, council, and marshal. Thomas Rives served as mayor, with Reverend Bridges, W. R. Hall, A. R. Braselton, and James Loveless serving on the council. Harvey M. Duke served as town marshal. The new government wasted little time getting to work. As the Jackson Herald reported:

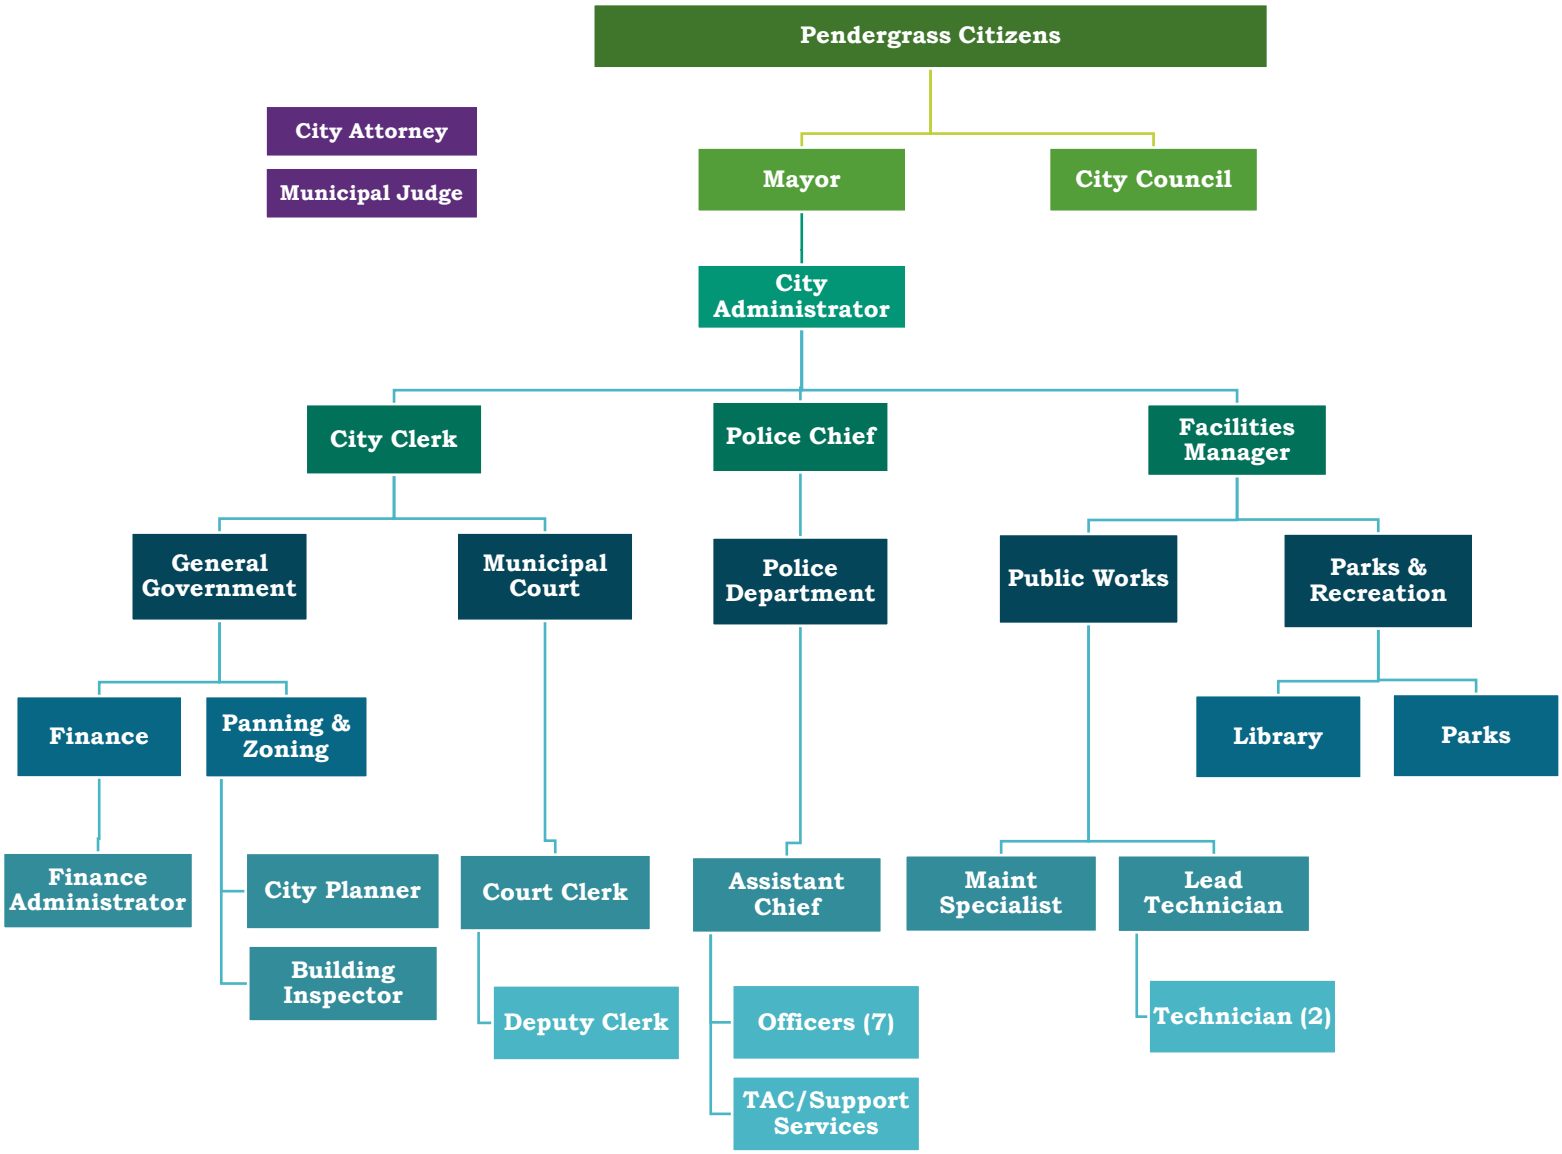

"Council met Monday night and enacted some rigid laws for the benefit of the evil doers, and we expect from this time forward to have a civil town."

Beyond the council chamber, the community was taking shape. Businesses were changing hands, residents were moving into new homes, and the local school anticipated strong attendance, with seventy-five pupils subscribed for its nine-month session.

A station name had become a community. The surviving newspaper accounts preserve the people, investments, and ambitions behind Pendergrass's beginnings—and show how a railroad connection helped set a new town in motion.

Fund Descriptions

Governmental accounting is organized on a fund structure basis. A fund represents a separate accounting entity with its own revenues, expenditures, and balance. This structure is designed to ensure accountability and compliance with legal and financial requirements. Each fund operates as a self-balancing set of accounts, allowing the governing body and the public to clearly see how resources are allocated and used.

The three broad fund categories include governmental funds, proprietary funds, and fiduciary funds. Common governmental funds include the General Fund, which finances the daily operations of a government; Special Revenue Funds, which are restricted to special purposes, Capital Project Funds, which account for major infrastructure improvements and construction projects, and Debt Service Funds, which provide for the repayment of outstanding obligations.

The City of Pendergrass maintains a simplified fund structure. At present, the city operates:

- General Fund - The City's primary operating fund. It finances the general governmental functions of the city, including administration, public safety, municipal court, and public works. This fund accounts for most revenues and expenditures necessary to provide daily services to residents.

- SPLOST 7 - The Special Purpose Local Option Sales Tax (SPLOST) Fund accounts for revenue collected from the voter-approved sales tax. By law, these funds can only be used for specific capital projects identified in the referendum, such as roads, buildings, and major equipment, and cannot be spent on general operating costs.

- TSPLOST – The Transportation Special Purpose Local Option Sales Tax (TSPLOST) Fund accounts for the City's share of revenue generated by the voter-approved transportation special purpose local option sales tax. These revenues are restricted for transportation purposes and may only be used for eligible transportation projects in accordance with the approved referendum and applicable state law. Projects may include road, street, bridge, drainage, sidewalk, and other transportation-related improvements identified for funding through the program.

Basis of Accounting

The City of Pendergrass prepares its governmental fund financial statements using the modified accrual basis of accounting. Under this method, revenues are recognized when they become both measurable and available to finance current expenditures. "Available" is generally defined as collectible within the current period or soon enough thereafter to be used to pay liabilities of the current period. Common examples include property taxes, licenses, and intergovernmental revenues that are recorded when received within sixty days of year-end.

Expenditures are recognized when the related fund liability is incurred, apart from long-term obligations such as debt service, compensated absences, and pension liabilities, which are recognized when due. This approach provides a practical measure of the City's ability to finance its current services and obligations with current resources.

All represented funds are accounted for on this modified accrual basis. This ensures consistency across the City's primary operating and capital accounts, supports compliance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) for governmental entities, and provides transparent reporting for management, elected officials, and citizens.

Revenue Summary

The City of Pendergrass derives its revenues from a diverse set of sources that provide stability and support the delivery of essential services. The largest source of revenue is taxes, which include property taxes, motor vehicle taxes, and other related levies. In FY 2027, taxes are projected to generate approximately $2.67 million, representing 86% of total revenues.

Additional revenue streams include Licenses and Permits, which are expected to contribute $150,000 in FY 2027, reflecting a decrease in development within the city. Fines and forfeitures, primarily from municipal court fines and related penalties, are projected at $240,000. Smaller, but still meaningful, sources include Charges for Services such as program and administrative fees, and donations, which may fluctuate from year to year.

Together, these sources are projected to produce $3.1 million in total revenues for FY 2027, providing the resources necessary to fund public safety, government administration, public works, and other City services.

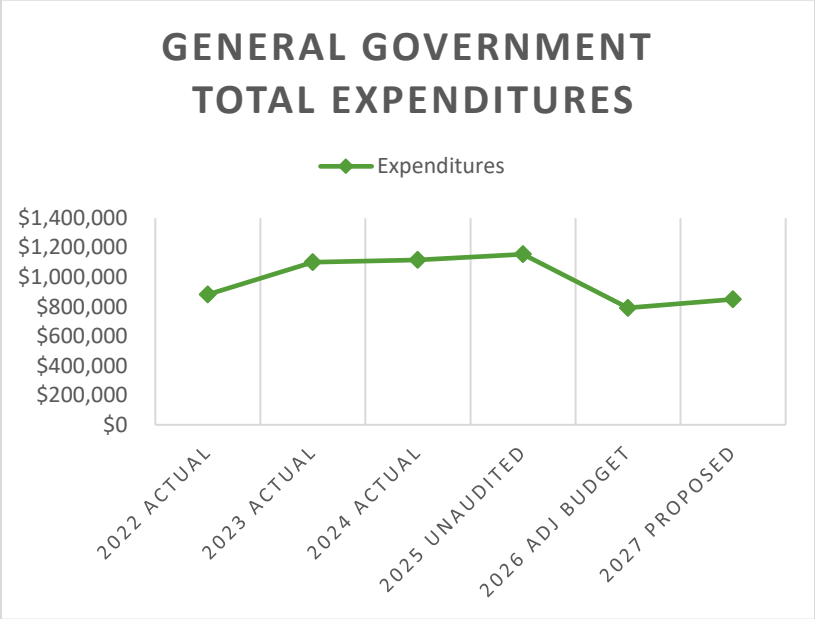

Expenditure Summary

The City of Pendergrass allocates its expenditures to ensure the delivery of essential services and the continued growth of the community. The largest share of the FY 2027 budget, $1.5 million, is dedicated to Public Safety, which supports 24-hour police coverage and provides funding for the personnel and equipment needed to keep residents safe. General Government follows at $850,000, supporting administration, elected officials, and the core operations that keep the city running smoothly.

Public Works accounts for $425,000 in FY 2027, funding the maintenance of City buildings, streets, and equipment. The Municipal Court budget includes a full-time Court Clerk and Municipal Court operations at $200,000, while Debt Service is expected to incur no expenses, with the Mayor prioritizing paying off outstanding debts in FY 2026. Finally, the city increases the Parks and Recreation Department budget with $125,000 set aside for park improvements and community programming, including the expansion of the public library to its own building. Together, these expenditures total $3.1 million and reflect the City's commitment to public safety, efficient governance, strong infrastructure, and enhanced quality of life for residents.

Department expenditures in this budget are grouped into broad roll-up categories to simplify presentation. Personal Services reflect salaries and wages paid to employees, as well as employee benefits such as insurance and retirement contributions. Purchased Services represent payments to outside vendors and contractors; Capital Outlays account for major one-time investments in vehicles, equipment, or facilities; and Supplies include fuel, utilities, uniforms, and other materials needed for operations. Other Costs cover items not classified elsewhere, such as dues or fees. Debt Service reflects the principal and interest payments on the City's outstanding obligations.
